

THE REPUBLICAN

Edited in the post office at Morgantown, Butler county, Ky., as second class mail matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. B. MOREHEAD Editor and Manager.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 13, 1906

For Congress
HON. A. D. JAMES,
Of Muhlenburg County.

Announcements.

We are authorized to announce Harry Lincoln Myers as a candidate for the Legislature from this district, subject to the action of the Republican primary to be held Nov. 6, 1906.

We are authorized to announce M. J. Johnson as an independent candidate for the Legislature from this district. Election, November 1906.

Beware of the dog tax!

Opposed of the Carnegie spelling reforms the President is delighted.

Notwithstanding earthquakes Secretary Root is convinced that Chile is "some shakes."

The new spelling calls for kist in place of the old time kissee. The girls are ready for a spell of it.

According to a recent dispatch a New Jersey man was stabbed in a vacant place. Presumably six inches above his shoulder.

The broadening effect of travel is apparent in Mr. Bryan. It looks now as if he was so broad as to crowd his party out altogether.

Be patient! President T. R. is likely at any moment to do something that will make spelling reform look like a bad number.

When the farmers speak of their full crops, one does not know whether it is the result of a Republican administration or anti-race-suicide doctrines.

A headline in a South Carolina paper reads: "Bryan Stabbed." But does not explain whether he was using a pitchfork or plucking blackberries.

When Representative Longworth married Alice Roosevelt he was considered a good amateur violinist.
Since then he has also learned to play second fiddle.

It is said that twenty states have endorsed Mr. Bryan but his satisfaction may be somewhat allayed by the fact that most of them are in the Republican column.

Haven't the Republicans rather overdone the good crop stunt in politics?
It is said that the price of corn has slumped fifteen cents.

It is said that Senator Beveridge after paralyzing Maine will elucidate the "reinassance of the decalogue of commercialism on a Chicago platform."

It is not Andrew Carnegie who should be given the laurels for spelling reform. One Artemus Ward had views on spelling long before Mr. Carnegie promulgated his.

Secretary Taft says the tariff will not be revised. Senator Beveridge pledges New England it will be, but the people who really want to know about it had better ask Uncle Joe Cannon or the President who spells it with a single i.

A New York Professor has estimated that the reformed spelling will save six years save over forty millions of dollars in New York City alone. It is estimated that two years time will be saved in teaching spelling will be saved to each pupil and this saving in money is valued at about $80. Prof.
Harris, the recent venerable Chief of the Bureau of Education in Washington, agrees with him in this estimation.
Multiply 800,000 pupils by $80 and we have 40,000,000.

England is indignant because the President of the United States is interfering with the spelling of the English language. The idea of that country is that the language is more nearly loaned to this country and that we are violating the proprieties by trying to make it over. England is not fully acquainted with Theodore Roosevelt yet. If it has met his daughter, and she has told her that if he should try to change he would not hesitate to do so.

Republicans keep your seats from now on until the election and don't move from one precinct to another or you will lose your vote.

Sam Jones on Society Women.

When God gives a man a wife and six children he has done a great deal for a fellow. But when he gives him a society woman and a poodle dog he has done him up. These society women look on children as a nuisance.

I have had some of the society women shake hands with me; I had as soon shaken hands with a dead fish ball. I wouldn't give one of your rock-darning women for all your society women in the whole country. Between cutting off the top of their dresses for the ball room and the bottom for the bicycle, these society women will soon have no clothes left. A man said to a society woman, "I hope I will see more of you." She said, "Come to the ball tonight." Some people say I shouldn't speak that way before a mixed audience. Your own sisters wear high collars around their necks—that is modest and honest, but deliver me from the society women who button their collars around their waists.

Somewhat or other there is mighty little Republican prosperity or any other kind showing up in these diggings of late but we are still looking forward.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

Did you see the millionaire bachelor?

Aunt Sockey is for government ownership of snakes.

Now the wheels of business begin to turn. Hurrah!

Come around to the Republican office and make a noise like a silver dollar or a dollar bill.

Rev. H. M. Guyon will begin a meeting at Lebanon Church Sept. 16.
Assisted by Rev. J. T. Birches of Ovenham.

We noticed by the way, that President Roosevelt is our own age, but somehow or other he has gotten along a little better than we have.

X-u-old tax dodgers had better read the notice headed "Look Out" in this issue from Assessor Day and go over yourselves accordingly.

Rev. Geo. Bush filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday, delivering his discourse to large and attentive congregations.

Ladies don't forget that nice dinner that you are going to donate to the Soldiers' Monument. Put it up in a pretty box or basket and somebody will bid high on it.

Coach Jim Rivers says he wants every man who reads the advertisement to take dinner at his place and talk about his basket.

An of Gunce Prevention

It worth a pound of cure. There are many poor suffering chameleons who are hopeless of getting well—who if they had taken care of themselves would now be well. A couple is the foundation of insomniacs. Ballard's Horehound syrup will cure that cough.
Mrs. S.—Great Falls, Montana, writes:
"I have had Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for years; my children never suffer with cough."

this. Mrs. Mary E. Hammond, Moody,

We would like to make a protest against some of our young ladies concealing a very pretty forehead behind a lot of loose hair. It may be fashion but hang fashion if it is going to damage the looks of a pretty girl or woman. A fine forehead is something to be proud of and we cannot spend so much time and waste so much in getting trying to make it appear that the Almighty had made them as destitute of forehead as an Indian.

THE INSTITUTE

The Butler County Teachers' Institute convened at Morgantown on Monday morning, September 10, 1906.

A large attendance of school teachers from all parts of the county were in their respective places at the Union church at 9:30 awaiting the organization.

Prior to the organization they were entertained by speeches by Revs.
G. B. Bush, H. M. Guyon, and Sept.
H. H. Drake, all of which were very instructive and uplifting, and compi-mentary to the teachers of Butler county.

The organization resulted in the election of Prof. Lon Haynes as chairman, Aero Webster as assistant chairman, and Miss Louise Bealey as secretary, who are faithful and efficient officers and who are all worthy of such trust.

For the first time in the history of Butler county, so far as we are able to learn, our worthy Superintendent has wisely seen fit to employ a Butler county teacher as instructor.
This he did knowing and realizing the ability of Prof. L. S. Stinnett as an excellent teacher.

B. E. Flener and wife, of Cromwell, were visiting their son J. C. Flener last Monday.

R. D. Blaneott and Mrs. Cherry returned from an extended trip to Saturday.

Heretofore, there has been too many college teachers employed to instruct the teachers of Butler county how to teach school in the rural districts and while they are well qualified by every teacher and every Butler county citizen who is acquainted with Through all the comin years just be glad! That's a powerful good text for a sermon but I ain't goin to preach it now. I will just ask some try to keep the spirit and meaning ov it. That is a powerful site ov differ-you ever git that way? People that don't never get that way has somethin the matter with their heart or their liver or maybe both.

Some say that most ov people git sour and disagreeable fit. It ain't so, altogether. I know some old people don't sour but keep a grand old

EARLY TIME TABLES

THE FIRST RAILWAY GUIDE THAT WAS ISSUED IN ENGLAND.

Bradshaw's Modest Volume and the Manchester Quaker had to overcome Traveling in the Old Time Pioneer Train.

It was an inspired moment when it occurred to George Bradshaw, the Manchester Quaker and map engraver, to publish his time table in 1850; and even if his intricate pages, as has been suggested, have helped to drive many a man out of his wits, it is quite certain that John Bull could never do without his Bradshaw.

In the early days of this friend of those who travel by rail French published an amusing, if not very truthful, skit entitled "Bradshaw—A Mystery," in which five young ladies, selected by leagues of railwaymen, play to meet by the friendly assistance of Bradshaw. But, after consulting his pages until they were on the verge of lunacy, the lady, in despair, exclaims, "I am maddened by Bradshaw." "And me," rejoins Orlando.

He talks of trains arriving that never start, of trains that seem to start and never arrive, of junctions where no union is effected, of coaches meeting trains that never come.

— and so on, but the genial Quaker only smiled and went on his way.

In these days, when the United Kingdom is covered with an intricate network of many thousands of miles of railways, and when its time tables spread over considerably more than a thousand densely packed pages of type, it seems impossible to imagine a time when you could count all the railroads on the fingers of one hand and when the only guide was a small card carried in the pocket, on which were engraved the times of starting of a dozen trains of the Grand Junction railway.

This was the condition of things in the year of Queen Victoria's accession, and two years later, on Oct. 10, 1852, Bradshaw published his first Railway Time Table, a tiny pamphlet four and a half inches long and three inches wide, bound in green cloth with gold lettering. It was nothing more than a collection of the monthly time tables issued by the seven railway companies then in existence and was as modest a volume as ever came from the press.

Of this pioneer, Bradshaw there are only four copies now in existence, of which two are in the Bodleian library at Oxford, and, if by chance one of them were to come into the market it would certainly fetch many times its weight in gold.

The success of his Time Table encouraged Bradshaw to a more ambitious effort, and he inaugurated the year 1850 by publishing his Railway Companion, a twin-volume of but thirty-eight pages, including maps, and sold at a shilling. This was issued concurrently for eight years, when the two volumes were merged in the Guide.

These original Bradshaws were published at irregular intervals and in many time sheets, which often failed to make their appearance until the 6th or 8th of the month, from the difficulty in learning the changes in times from the railway authorities.

The companies, indeed, strongly resented Bradshaw's innovation and put every possible obstacle in his way. But their obstinacy was not proof against the Quaker's ingenuity and persistence, and at last they capitulated and actually agreed, at his request, to adjust their time-tables for the beginning of each month. It was on Dec. 1, 1851, that Bradshaw began to publish his Guide monthly "under the direction and with the assistance of the railway companies," and from this date things began to run smoothly for him.

The first monthly Guide was of thirty-two pages and contained forty-two or forty-three lines of railway, to such an extent had they multiplied in four or five years. It was published both in volume form and displayed on a single large sheet, price threepence, which could be mounted on a stiff board and hung up in offices and business houses.

In 1853 Bradshaw had blossomed into the Monthly General Railway and Steam Navigation Guide, with elaborate tables containing a "list of shares, exhibiting at one view the cost, traffic, length, dividend and market value of the game."

These early railway guides are most interesting reading. The trains are described as first class, second class, mixed fast and mail. Third class travelers had the choice of traveling on the roof or in open wagons resembling cattle trucks, while gentlemen riding in their own carriages are charged second class fares. Luggage was carried on the roof.—New York Herald.

Race Memory of Birds.

I am never tired of watching my barn door fowls on the occasion when the sweep comes, on the moment when the brush emerges from the top of the chimney. Whatever the fowls are doing, they rush in every direction seeking for cover, convinced that an awful enemy has appeared on the roof. A cap thrown high in the air has the same effect. It wakes the latest remembrance of the birds of prey. They see what may be called the vision of the ideal hawk, which is far stronger and more deeply imbedded in these very physiology than any momentary image that can be. This theory of inherited race memory seems to throw light upon the origin of instinct. Thus animals often live and move as if impelled by reason and foreknowledge. Fear, often repeated, calls forth the long "years of the rabbit."—Carpenter's "The Art of Creation."
